ecologists can spend a lifetime researching a small patch of the earth studying the interactions between organisms and the environment and exploring the roles those interactions play in determining distribution abundance and evolutionary change with so few ecologists and so many systems to study generalizations are essential but how do you extrapolate knowledge about a well studied area and apply it elsewhere through a range of original essays written by eminent ecologists and naturalists the ecology of place explores how place focused research yields exportable general knowledge as well as practical local knowledge and how society can facilitate ecological understanding by investing in field sites place centered databases interdisciplinary collaborations and field oriented education programs that emphasize natural history this unique patchwork of case study narratives philosophical musings and historical analyses is tied together with commentaries from editors ian billick and mary price that develop and synthesize common threads the result is a unique volume rich with all too rare insights into how science is actually done as told by scientists themselves this book examines the emerging problems and opportunities that are posed by media innovations spatial typologies and cultural trends in re shaping identities within the fast changing milieus of the early 21st century addressing a range of social and spatial scales and using a phenomenological frame of reference the book draws on the works of heidegger merleau ponty and don hide to bridge the seemingly disparate yet related theoretical perspectives across a number of disciplines various perspectives are put forward from media human geography cultural studies technologies urban design and architecture etc and looked at thematically from networked culture and digital interface and other perspectives the book probes the ways in which new digital media trends affect how and what we communicate and how they drive and reshape our everyday practices this mediatization of space with fast evolving communication platforms and applications of digital representations offers challenges to our notions of space identity and culture and the book explores the diverse yet connected levels of technology and people interaction in place out of place was first published in 1996 minnesota archive editions uses digital technology to make long unavailable books once again accessible and are published unaltered from the original university of minnesota press editions what is the relationship between place and behavior in this fascinating volume tim cresswell examines this question via transgressive acts that are judged as inappropriate not only because they are committed by marginalized groups but also because of where they occur in place out of place seeks to illustrate the ways in which the idea of geographical deviance is used as an ideological tool to maintain an established order cresswell looks at graffiti in new york city the attempts by various hippie groups to hold a free festival at stonehenge during the summer solstices of 1984 86 and the greenham common women s peace camp in berkshire england in each of the cases described the groups involved were designated as out of place both by the media and by politicians whose descriptions included an array of images such as dirt disease madness and foreignness cresswell argues that space and place are key factors in the definition of deviance and conversely that space and place are used to construct notions of order and propriety in addition whereas ideological concepts being expressed about what is good just and appropriate often are delineated geographically the transgression of these delineations reveals the normally hidden relationships between place and ideology in other words the out of place serves to highlight and define the in place by looking at the transgressions of the marginalized cresswell argues we can gain a novel perspective on the normal and taken for granted expectations of everyday life the book concludes with a consideration of the possibility of a politics of transgression arguing for a link between the challenging of spatial boundaries and the possibility of social transformation tim cresswell is currently lecturer in geography at the university of wales hawaiian legends figure greatly in the image of tropical paradise that has come to represent hawai i in popular imagination but what are we buying into when we read these stories as texts in english language translations cristina bacchilega poses this question in her examination of the way these stories have been adapted to produce a legendary hawai i primarily for non hawaiian readers or other audiences with an understanding of tradition that foregrounds history and change bacchilega examines how following the 1898 annexation of hawai i by the united states the publication of hawaiian legends in english delegitimized indigenous narratives and traditions and at the same time constructed them as representative of hawaiian culture hawaiian mo olelo were translated in popular and scholarly english language publications to market a new cultural product a space constructed primarily for euro americans as something simultaneously exotic and primitive and beautiful and welcoming to analyze this representation of hawaiian traditions place and genre bacchilega focuses on translation across languages cultures and media on photography as the technology that contributed to the visual formation of a westernized image of hawai i and on tourism as determining postannexation economic and ideological machinery in a book with interdisciplinary appeal bacchilega demonstrates both how the myth of legendary hawai i emerged and how this vision can be unmade and reimagined
